Loy Takes Hoops Crown Again

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

For the second consecutive week, Robert Loy edged a cluster of low-scoring entries to claim top honors in this installment of the Adair Progress Basketball Contest.

Loy predicted 15 out of 19 games correctly this week, after a printing error resulted in voiding the Eastern Kentucky vs. Southeast Missouri State matchup, and was the only contestant to accurately foresee North Carolina State's victory over previously unbeaten Duke. Loy's 15 games were just enough to top second place Fred Spoon's 14 correct predictions, and David Reliford took third place by way of tiebreaker, calling for a three-point North Carolina win over Louisville.

Fellow 13-game scorers Josh Grant and Audie Beard each called for Card victories, while the actual game saw the Tar Heels win by a single point, and the trio bested a group of eight entrants who correctly predicted 12 games.

For his win, Loy will again receive $25 and a Sonic Combo Value Meal. Spoon's second place finish nets him a six-pack of Ski courtesy of Western Kentucky University and the Coca-Cola Bottling Company and a Burger King Whopper Value Meal, and both Reliford and this week's random drawing winner, Willie Hare, will receive Sonic Combo Value Meals as prizes.

Fiscal Court Moves Forward with Senior Citizens Center

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

The bulk of Tuesday night's regularly scheduled meeting of the Adair County Fiscal Court was spent on an action item listed near the end of the presented agenda. Judy Keltner, longtime advocate of a Senior Citizens Center in Adair County, presented a bid for the project to be undertaken at the Jim Blair Center.

"We are up to the point of this court finally awarding bids for this project," Keltner said happily before detailing the more than seven-year process that led up to now.

The bid, from Vanhook Enterprises, Inc. comes with a base of $421,000, with an additional $74,500 in alternates which include replacing the metal roofing and installing a lowered acoustical ceiling in the Jim Blair Center, which will house the Senior Center. Architectural group Brandstetter Carroll Inc. has reviewed and approved the bid.

In addition to the $495,000 bid, an architect fee of $39,640 and other additional fees and contingencies boost the total cost of the project to $575,000. The facility itself will be constructed

Westlake Hears Audit, Picks Healthcare Plan

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

The Adair County Hospital District met in special session Tuesday afternoon inside the boardroom at Westlake Regional Hospital to hear the 2014 financial audit from Louisville based Blue & Co. and select an employee healthcare plan for 2015.

Overall, the hospital's net position decreased $620,641 from 2013 to 2014, with a loss in operations of $510,000. While Westlake's revenue dipped 13.4-percent in 2014, they were able to cut costs by 16.1-percent, helping offset the decrease in money made.

"Typically when I see this kind of drop in revenue, it is really, really bad news for the bottom line," Blue & Co. auditor Steve Jones explained. "But because management had put in place certain cuts, you have the benefit of a full year of expense reduction to offset those losses in revenue."

In fact, Westlake was able to cut its yearly losses in half from a $1.3 million loss in 2013. The other significant change in audit results stems from the hospital's Chapter 9 Bankruptcy status, which has frozen many of their debt payments and resulted in a cash and cash equivalent boost of more than $2 million, or 382-percent increase from 2013.

Aside from a shift from self-pay to an increase in Medicare, Medicaid and other third-party payors due to the Affordable Care Act, the remainder of the audit is similar to its 2013

Attorney Hal Roach is currently splitting time between his offices in South Carolina and here in Columbia. The former ACHS grad opened the firm in his hometown earlier this month.

Hal Roach Opens Firm In Hometown

By Wes Feese

Columbia native Hal Roach is returning to his hometown roots, as he opened Roach Law Firm this month on Campbellsville Street.

The son of H.W. and Ruby Roach was born and raised in Columbia, but has lived in South Carolina since 1987, where he operates a firm in Greenville.

"After law school I joined the Navy, met a girl from South Carolina, and stayed," Roach explained in an interview Tuesday at his new office. "I was up here back in September, my wife and I were looking around, and we thought about [opening an office here]."

Roach sought council in Kathy Jones—wife of the late Circuit and District Judge Paul Barry Jones—and was encouraged with the feedback he received.

"I called Kathy and asked her what she thought, and she was very supportive about it," Roach said. "She said that she thought I could be useful up here."

Roach boasts extensive experience in several different areas of law, including veterans' disability, social security disability, and bankruptcy, and said that those will be his main areas of focus in Columbia.

"I tend to focus on those, and I've also worked in criminal law but won't be doing that here," Roach said. "There aren't a lot of people here doing the type of work that I do."

Roach's background in the Navy has given him a unique perspective when it comes to veterans' disability claims, and he's hoping his expertise will prove beneficial to this Controversy. Divisiveness. Anger. What role do these themes play in how we consume news?

As I was perusing the headlines this week I noticed a sad trend. The top stories being reported aren't necessarily the most important ones, but the ones that tend to split people into opposing groups, to make people choose sides. This trend is in no way new, and all good reporting should make people consider and reconsider their own views on the matter being discussed, but simply pouring gasoline on a hot-button issue shouldn't be the goal either.

With that said, this week I'm going to touch on a few headline-grabbing issues—one that made international news, one that made national news, and a state-level story—and offer my take on the matter, as well as a critique of the national media's reporting. Yeah, I know, this is like a moped critiquing a Ferrari, but I don't care.

•The French satirical newspaper Charlie Hebdo is set to publish Wednesday its first issue since gunmen attacked the newspaper's office in Paris last week, killing 12 people. The attackers were reportedly angry at the paper for depicting images of the Prophet Mohammad; so naturally, the first issue after the attack will feature the Islamic icon on the front page.

First of all, I think the most irresponsible aspect of this story has been the focus on the shooters' religion. Yes, they were Muslim, but first and foremost, they were crazy, violent, sociopaths. Those two do not go hand in hand. I'm sure almost every Muslim in the world disapproved of the caricatures of Mohammad, but only two decided to kill people over it. If a Christian attacked a newspaper in the United States, the reporting wouldn't be that he or she was a Christian, but a criminal.

I'm not condoning Charlie Hebdo either. They're looking to make money, and they are doing so by being offensive. They have that right though. Freedom of speech means other people can say and do things that you might find offensive. If my religion were mocked in a newspaper, I would be offended, and I probably would never read that paper again, but I wouldn't shoot people.

•On the national scene, Texas Rep. Randy Weber made a spectacle of himself by comparing President Obama to Adolf Hitler. Weber was actually making reference to the aforementioned newspaper attack in Paris, but chose to cheapen his opinion by stating on Twitter: "Even Adolf Hitler thought it more important than Obama to get to Paris. (For all the wrong reasons.) Obama couldn't do it for right reasons"

Terrible punctuation aside, this was a stupid comment. Weber's point, I think, was to criticize Obama for not joining several other world leaders in Paris for an anti-terrorism rally following the attack, and that criticism is valid. He ruined a decent argument though by stupidly throwing Hitler's name in there. I'm glad we live in a country where we can freely mock our highest elected officials, but to draw parallels between our president and arguably the most evil person of the 20th century makes Weber look out of touch with reality.

This story was probably over-reported by the national media simply because it's more of a gaffe than actual news. It should have been lightly reported and then Weber could have been thoroughly mocked on social media, just like our forefathers intended. Also, isn't it about time we stop comparing people to Hitler? We should have a little more respect for history.

•On the state scene, longtime basketball analyst Dick Vitale drew the scorn of Louisville fans (and plentyof others, to be fair) for his tribute to recently deceased colleague Stuart Scott this weekend by dropping a "Booyah! Booyah! Booyah! Booyah! Booyah!" on national television in the closing seconds of the Cards' loss to North Carolina.

Some Louisville fans were outraged by this act. They said it wasn't professional. True, it wasn't professional, but I also don't think it was wrong. Vitale has always been the biggest fan of the team winning the game, and I didn't mind him dropping the catchphrase (even though five times might have been a little much) since Louisville was playing Scott's alma mater. Even Cards' head coach Rick Pitino said the tribute was "a classy thing to do."

Surprisingly, the coverage on this topic was probably the most fair of any of the three I've mentioned. It wasn't ignored, it wasn't blown out of proportion, and it wasn't (as) divisive.

The lesson: Don't shoot people, don't call people Hitler, and sports are awesome.

Ask Dr. Angelia

Its cold outside, Restless Reader, we should have had a foot of snow by now. Snow somehow has the ability to motivate us to get to the grocery store, go home to enjoy the beauty of a good snow, snuggle in with comfort food and gather the family to watch inspiring movies. Most of the country has snowy conditions; we just have below frigid cold. Still, that keeps many Precious People from venturing out. The tendency when the weather is freezing to slow down and stay inside. That's where the restless part comes in. You can only "hunker down" for so long before it affects your mind. So, Precious People, the Ask question is, "What can brings us joy in the midst of a Polar Vortex?"

"Joy is what happens to us when we allow ourselves to recognize how good things really are." -- Marianne Williamson

In the midst of a Polar Vortex, joy can be found inside --in the warm nest we call home. During this special time of year we have an opportunity to appreciate the good things in our lives and to think about the future. I'm a self-proclaimed gardener and, for me, winter is a time of rest. I grow herbs inside, but, in spring and summer, I'm growing as many vegetables and flowers as I have space. Winter is time to rest, dream and plan for the next season (Have you noticed the days getting longer? Winter is a time to plan the coming year, plant the seeds for future goals -starting now and thinking forward to the spring. I'm finding joy in the anticipation of warmer weather and, particularly, in the winter seed catalogs!

Think of winter as the planning phase and spring a fresh start. Think of winter as a time of meditation and contemplation. A quiet pause on a winter's day can be a time for reflection on the next big steps: Sitting alone and quietly seeking the meaning of winter encampment is a great opportunity to soul search, dream daydreams, see yourself with your mind's eye -- a new creation and produce positive pathways for life changes. Take time to meditate on what you are feeling at this particular moment. See with your mind's eye the whiteness of the snow or a purifying rain washing your body and cleansing your soul to welcome the next chapter in life.

According to the National Institute for Health, winter can be a hard time for some Precious People. These Precious People are sensitive to the shorter days and lack of sunshine. If you or you know someone that is affected with a sadden outlook, feelings of hopelessness and irritability. They may be suffering from a form of winter blues -- they may hibernate, withdraw from others, have a low energy, oversleep and put on weight because they crave energy through carbs and sugar. If you or Some Sweet Someone is struggling this winter, more light is the key.

On those wonderful winter days when the sun is shining bright - go outside (at least 15 minutes or longer)!. You will be reminded of the awesomeness of the outdoors. Take a walk on a sunny day, and bask in the sunlight that is so desperately needed through the winter months. If you're dressed in multiple layers, Polar Vortexes or snowy days won't keep you inside battling cabin fever. After venturing outdoors, it's an amazing blessing to come back inside and feel the warmth of home. This is a perfect time to make a hot cup of tea or coffee, and look out the window at the beauty of the winter landscape. Take a long, hot bath to warm up after being outdoors. Be mindful the hot water is a blessing and this mindfulness helps create gratitude for our many blessings such as the comforts a bountiful blanket, the heating in our homes and walls constructed to protect us against the Polar Vortex and silent storms outside.

Above all, watch with glittering eyes the whole world around you because the greatest secrets are always hidden in the most unlikely places. Those who don't believe in magic will never find it. -- Roald Dahl

I'm so blessed and grateful to have a column in several newspapers with an opportunity to inspire Precious People to become their best self. Precious Ones, if you want to talk, call me. If you prefer to text or email, send me a note. Just reach out; I pray for opportunities to help Precious People. Amen.

With Gratitude for You,
Angelia S. Bryant, CCMHC, LPCC

Milliard Butler is a brother of Melvin Butler, who was shot and killed October 1... Milliard Butler was a carpenter by trade until about thirteen months ago, when he was stricken totally blind as the result of a nerve disease. After his affliction came on him, he was supported by his brother, Melvin...(sons of) Mrs. Mary Butler...The Butler boys were formerly citizens of Adair County, having removed to Louisville many years ago.--19 December 1906

Civil War Letter Referencing the death of Captain Champ Butler--Written Forty-Three Years Ago By Mr. John R. Cundiff to Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Squires--Our Pelham correspondent, Mr. Ernest Cundiff, handed us a letter last week which was written by his father forty-three years ago, while stationed at Knoxville, Tenn., to Mr. and Mrs. James Squires. Mr. Cundiff was a member of Company C, 13th Kentucky Infantry, and many incidents to which he refers will be remembered by his comrades, a number of whom live in this county.

"Knoxville, Tenn., July 27th, '64

Mr. and Mrs. Squires:

I will take the opportunity which is presented to write to you, hoping that you both are well and enjoying good health. I have been sick for some time and left the regiment June 16th. Since I came here my regiment has been in one fight, in which Capt. Champ Butler was killed and Joseph Hood wounded in the face, with grape shot, but not dangerously. Wm. Butler is sick with flux. I will not attempt to give you particulars as to the movements of the army, as you can keep posted much better than a private soldier, but suffice it to say that I have heard the thundering of cannon and roar of musketry since May. Am very anxious to see the 13th mustered out so that I can return to the happy and peaceful life as before. Tell Morty not to get scared into joining the army, but stay at home with Lue and the children. When you write me give all the news about your farming, how Morty is getting along, etc. (signed) John R. Cundiff." --20 February 1907"

Wm. Butler--In "Lincoln's views of Slavery in 1837," by Ida M. Tarbell, published in McClure's we clip the following extract: From a photograph owned by his grandson, Hon. William J. Butler, Springfield, Illinois; William Butler was a native of Kentucky, being born in Adair County, that state, December 15, 1797. In the War of 1812, he carried important messages from the Governor of Kentucky [Isaac Shelby] to General [William Henry] Harrison in the field, traveling on horseback. He went to Sangamon County, Illinois in 1828. In 1836 he was appointed Clerk of the Circuit Court by Judge Logan, whom he had known in Kentucky. In 1859 he was appointed by Governor Bissell, State Treasurer of Illinois, to fill a vacancy, and in 1860 was elected to that office. He was married to Elizabeth Rickard, December 18, 1863. He died in Springfield, January 11, 1876. Soon after becoming a resident of Springfield, Lincoln went to William Butler's house to board. There he was like a member of the family. He lived with Mr. Butler until his marriage in 1842. The two men were ever the warmest personal and political friends.--24 April 1907

Mr. Henry A. Hurt and Miss Nannie Lee Butler to be Married December 18th--On Wednesday afternoon December 18, at the residence of the intended bride's parents, Mrs. and Mrs. William Butler, two miles out on the Campbellsville pike, Mr. Henry A. Hurt will be married to Miss Nannie Lee Butler, Eld. Z.T. Williams will officiate...--11 December 1907

Mr. W.C. Butler, son of Mr. D.H. Butler, is visiting relatives and friends in Columbia. He left here six years ago with his parents for Sacramento, McLean County, but for the past three years their homes hve been in Owensboro, where the father of young Butler is engaged in the planing mill business.--18 December 1907 in the smaller room of the Jim Blair Center, with the gymnasium area remaining unchanged.

Magistrate Daryl Flatt was cautious about the bid, citing the oftentimes-unforeseen expenses that can be tacked onto projects.

"I know sometimes when you get into this stuff, you run into a lot of money. Will the City cover half if it goes over?"

No one vocalized a definite answer to Flatt's query, but Judge-Executive Mike Stephens did make clear that the County would retain ownership of the building and that future additions could be made to expand and replace the side room, from which the county made around $6,500 in rentals last year.

"The seniors will be joining us, this won't be us joining them," Stephens explained. "This isn't one of those tail wags the dog situations."

"Some of us have become seniors while waiting on this to happen," the Judge-Executive joked.

Magistrate Terry Hadley, who was a member of the Court in 2007 when the project began, made the motion to enter into the agreement with the low bidder.

"Since I've been waiting since 2007, I'm going to make a motion on this," he said.

The motion passed unanimously.

In other news at Tuesday night's meeting, the Court:

•Answered questions from Patrick Willis, who inquired about the status of Jobe Darnell, whose contract with the county expired Jan. 4. Willis also asked if the road foreman position was something posted publicly or promoted from within, and asked about a potential conflict of interest in naming a new road foreman that used to be employed by the company who does blacktopping for the county.

Willis' questions were answered as Judge Stephens explained that the position was one of appointment by the County Judge, and by County Attorney Hutchison-Corbin who explained that because the county blacktopping was chosen by selecting the low bidder, no conflict of interest existed.

Willis thanked the Court for its time and explanations, and Stephens reiterated that he wanted to be completely open and transparent.

•Discussed a proposal from Green River Animal Shelter to lower the cost of spay and neutering pets for the month of February to increase adoption numbers and save money on housing, feeding and euthanizing animals. The court agreed to set the price at $50 for the month to reduce costs in the long run.

•Heard a first reading of policy and procedure for health insurance benefits, which provides health insurance for any county employee working more than 30 hours per week, in accordance with the Affordable Care Act.

•Appointed Mike Keltner to the Deputy Emergency Management Director and Greg Thomas to Search and Rescue Coordinator at no salary.

•Re-appointed David Taylor and Tony Bragg as deputy coroners.

•Performed a second reading of a policy that moved road foreman from an hourly position to a salaried one.

•Passed a continuity of government resolution in which Deputy Judge-Executive Holly Grimsley would assume Stephens' duties in the event he could not complete them.

•Placed Chris Rowe in a full-time position with the road department at a rate of $9.25 an hour.

•Passed a motion to terminate Casey County's use of the animal shelter due to concerns over their shelter's hoarding of dogs and possibility of disease.

•Passed a motion to allow the Jailer to be able to prepare or accept bail bonds. Jailer White would then collect a fee of $5 from the defendant.

•Heard the Sheriff's, Jail, Animal Shelter and Treasurer's reports.

All magistrates were present for the meeting.

counterpart. The audit again found material weakness deficiencies in internal control over financial reporting and segregation of duties, citing Westlake's lack of staff due to budgetary restrictions as limitations to both areas, in addition to material weaknesses in fixed asset tracking and account reconciliations.

The audit also labeled Westlake's pay roll rates a significant deficiency; in which a 4-percent error rate existed in their random sampling of 25 employee check numbers during the previous year. Additionally, the hospital was found to not be in compliance with their bond covenants, an expected finding due to the ongoing bankruptcy proceedings.

"I think it's important to note that we were not limited in scope," Jones added. "Everything we asked for, we were given by management."

"We certainly do appreciate working with Westlake Hospital," he continued. "We're looking forward to being part of the solution, and want people to know that just because the hospital may be in bankruptcy that it doesn't mean the quality of care has suffered."

In other news at Tuesday's meeting, the board renewed their employee health care plan with Bluegrass Family Health. As with last and prior years, BFH provided Westlake with the most competitive rates, helped by their granting of a 10-percent loyalty discount to the hospital. Last year's changes to the health insurance plan saved the hospital approximately $140,000. The BFH plan also allows employees to keep their co-pay.

With insurance premiums continuing to soar, even staying with the most cost-effective option will see an increase in hospital expenditures this year. The board chose between three options presented by BFH, one in which the hospital contributes $30 per month more than last year while employees contribute $20 more, one that sees Westlake foot an additional $40 bump and employees $10, and a third where the hospital would see a $50 increase and employee rates per month would remain the same.

CEO Neal Gold advised that the board select what was deemed Option 2, a continuation of last year's 80-percent contribution from Westlake, where the entity's monthly contribution would rise from $262.97 to $303 as employee costs jump from $65.74 to $75.76. This would yield an annual cost increase of about $60,000 per year.

"I think we should maintain our 80-percent contribution that we've done for the last several years," Gold said.

The board disagreed. Chairman Richard Grant, along with secretary Brad Keltner and treasurer Bruce White, bemoaned the current state of health insurance.

"Healthcare continues to be a hard thing for employers to figure out," Grant admits.

"I hate that the situation is the way it is for both employers and employees," White added. "But I would select option one."

With White's motion for Option 1, a 77-percent contribution from Westlake that ups the hospital's payments from $262.97 to $293 per month and employee payments from $65.74 to $85.75, raising Westlake's yearly increase to $44,000 instead of the aforementioned $60,000, Keltner seconded and the motion passed unanimously among White, Keltner and Grant. Vice chairman David Herbst was absent from the meeting.

After some discussion, the board agreed to continue waiving employee co-pay on services performed at Westlake, except for the emergency room, passing the measure unanimously.

Following both the audit report and acceptance and the health insurance selection, the board entered executive session to discuss proposed or pending litigation against or on behalf of the public agency. No action was taken.

In Loving Memory of

"Our Tony Grider"

I never got to say goodbye, I never got to kiss your face,
You went to be with Jesus, cause you had finished your race.

I love you so much, that words aren't enough
To explain what you meant to me, and your passing has been rough.

You left so many people behind, our grief has been much.
You truly never knew how many lives you touched.

I think of you with happy thoughts, you truly enjoyed life.
I see your smile and hear your voice, as you sweetly sigh.

We must continue with our journey,
to finish what the Lord will have us do
On our final and ending day, it is then we will join you.

Once again to be together, where we will never part.
Our sweet, sweet Tony, you live on in our hearts!

Melton, White file first for May primary elections

By PAUL HAYES

The first steps of action—which will culminate with the May primary and November general elections in Adair County—have already been taken, as four candidates have filed their intentions to seek elected office in this year's political races

As of noon Monday, individuals seeking the offices of sheriff, county court clerk, magistrate for District 4, and constable for District 3, had filed their notification and declaration papers stating their intentions to be candidates with county court clerk, Bob White

In what is forecast to be one of the hottest races in the primary, Gary Melton became the first candidate to file for the Republican nomination for sheriff Melton, currently a deputy under Sheriff Jimmy Firquin, will run with Clifton McGaha and Fred Sexton as his deputies Although he has yet to file, Coy Downey has announced and is expected to give Melton his biggest challenge while another candidate, Max Rowe has also announced he will seek the nomination

The only incumbent to file for re-election so far is Bob White who will be seeking his sixth term as County Court Clerk White will complete his 20th year as clerk at the end of 1981 and is not expected to have any challengers in either the primary or general elections this year

The first person to file for the seven magisterial positions which will be decided this year is Clovis "Short" Burris who filed for the Republican nomination in District 4 Burris, a Gradyville farmer and carpenter, will be seeking the magisterial seat now held by Fred Sexton, who chose to run as a deputy with Melton instead of seeking re-election

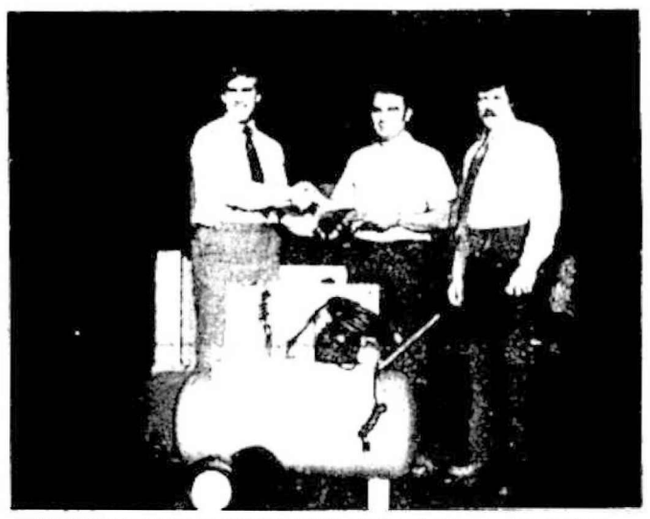

The fourth candidate to file to date—and the only Democrat—has been Robert A Grant, who has filed for the office of constable in District 3 Grant was appointed last year to fill the term of Frank Johnson, who resigned the office when he moved, and will seek election to a four-year term this year

A number of other candidates, including the incumbents in all county-wide offices except for sheriff, are expected to file their papers within the next few days, and a number of candidates are expected to file before the deadline, 55 days before the May 26 election +

Candidates

Rescue Squad receives portable air compressor

The Adair County Rescue Squad has received a portable air compressor valued at over $1100 as a donation from the Ingersoll-Rand Corporation's Campbellsville plant

The compressor was presented to the squad last week by Mike Parrott, operations manager for the Campbellsville plant, and Mike Fagan personnel manager

The compressor will be used for painting cleaning inflating tires and other things, and several other things at the squad building Bill Wheat, commander of the local squad, talking about the gift said "We would like to express our sincere thanks to the people at Ingersoll Rand for their donation, and we are glad to have such public minded firms in our area +

Choice of commissioner confronts fiscal court

By PAUL HAYES

The Adair County Fiscal Court will conduct its first meeting of the new year this morning at 10 00 a m , and the major topic of interest appears to be whether county judge executive James Brock will be able to get his choice for hospital commissioner approved by the court

The first vacancy on the original Adair County Hospital District Board of Commissioners came when the chairman, Ray Wilkerson's term expired in early December of last year, and the court and Judge Brock have been at odds since then on who will fill the vacancy

The magistrates have seemed to be in favor of renominating Wilkerson to fill the position, but Brock has expressed his opinion differently and wants to appoint someone new to the position namely James Keltner, a prominent Adair County farmer

According to law, it is the duty of the county judge-executive to nominate a person for commissioner, with the magistrates having to approve the nomination The matter came up at least three times during regular and specially called meetings of the court during December but no action was taken At the last meeting, Brock nominated Keltner and Robert Bell for the position, but the court declined to take action on the matter, subtly showing they did not approve of the nominations.

Brock was slated to meet

Fire department answers five calls Sunday

For the majority of the time in the last few weeks, the Columbia-Adair County Volunteer Fire Department hasn't been too active But, when the calls have come, they've arrived in a flurry, and on Sunday, for the second time in less than a week, the fire department responded to five fires in one day

All the fires on Sunday turned out to be minor ones with the most damaging fire being at the Springhill Apartments off of Carrie Bolin Drive According to city fire chief Mike Glasgow the fire apparently started from an electrical shortage or some other malfunction in the furnace room of one of the apartment buildings and most of the damage was contained to the furnace room, although at least one apartment suffered smoke and water damage

The fire department responded to two residences where there were flue fires at Ed McKinney's and Tulsa Walk-up's and both fires were extinguished without any major damages

Calls were also answered to bring under control a fire at the Jimmy Downey and Son Lumber Mill on Greensburg Road, where a lumber pile caught fire, and a grass fire near some oil tanks on the George Loy, Jr farm on Harvey's Ridge Both were brought under control without any damages +

START NEW YEAR RIGHT

Indians rip Campbellsville 59-38

By PAUL HAYES

The Adair County Indians used a 12-0 spurt at the beginning of the second half to erase a 23-20 Campbellsville lead and went on to clobber the visiting Eagles 59-38 to notch their first victory of the new year Friday night

Playing their first game since December 18th, the Indians got off to a slow start and Campbellsville took advantage of it to run out to a 12-5 lead at the end of the first quarter of play

The Eagles, who connected on 83 percent of their shots in the first half, continued their torrid shooting into the second eight minutes of play, and although the Indians finally got the ball to rolling, the Eagles held on and wound up on top 23-20 at the end of the first half of play

From there on, though, it was all Adair County Switching to a full court, man-to-man press at the onset of the second half, Coach Red Nixon's troops promptly forced the Eagles into several critical turnovers, and scored 12 straight points to turn a three-point deficit into a 32-23 lead

The Indians went on to outscore the visitors 20-6 in the decisive third quarter, and enjoyed a 40-29 lead going into the final eight minutes of play The Tribe then completely broke the game open in the final quarter, enjoying leads of up to 24 points before Campbellsville scored six points in the final seconds of the game to make the final tally 59-38.

Craig Lasley, the senior guard-forward who is the Tribe's leading scorer for the season, again led the Indian attack, pouring in a game high 19 points on 8 for 13 shooting from the field. He was followed by Keenon "Redbone" Bridgewater, who tossed in 14, and by Mark Ballou, the Indians' senior pivot man who tossed in a season high 13 points. Ballou and Jimmy Ellis both of whom had been sharing the center position in the previous seven games played by the Tribe both started the contest due to starter Todd Lavesay being sick, and Ellis also responded well, scoring four points and tying Craig Lasley for the team lead in rebounding with six

For the game the Indians connected on 27 of 47 shots for 57 percent including a torrid 18 of 26 for 69 percent in the second half Free throws were a real disappointment however as the Tribe could connect on only 5 of 15 for 33 percent With Ellis and Lasley leading the way, the Indians controlled the boards 24-21 and committed only six turnovers to Campbellsville's 21

"It was a really good win for us coming off the long Christmas break Coach Glynn "Red" Nixon said after the game "Not playing for two weeks showed in the first half, as we were a little stale, but we did come around and play like we are capable of in the second half

"I was really pleased with the way Ballou and Ellis played Both of them had been in offensive slumps and it really helped to get some offense from our inside game for a change " he continued "Ballou looked good taking the ball inside against their 6'5 center (Burress), and we're going to have to have that to be competitive the rest of the season

"I was well pleased with the way we shot the ball from the field-I'd take that kind of shooting (57 percent) the rest of the year, but our free throw shooting left a lot to be desired We're definitely going to have to improve on it from what it has been the past two games, and you're not going to win the close games hitting only 33 percent of your free shots. The kids are better shooters than that, but it seems like they're developing a mental block, and we're going to have to work it out "

The Indians next contest is tonight when they travel to Green County, and according to Nixon the game is the "most important one of the year so far for us " "Its importance is that it is the first conference game of the season," Nixon noted, "and it was one of our goals at the first of the season to repeat as S K A C champs, and we need to get off to a good start."

The Tribe handed the Dragons a 64-46 defeat in December, but Green County has regrouped to win two of three games since then, the latest being a 77-76 victory over Taylor County—the last team to defeat the Indians—last Friday night.

Hustling on defense

DEFENSE. Indian forward Rollin Claywell hustles to deny the ball to Campbellsville's 6'5" center, John Burress, during the Tribe's 59-38 victory Friday night. The combined defense of the Indians held the tall pivotman to seven points in the contest.

You can afford education

As a service to the residents of Adair County, the high school will hold a FREE financial aid workshop on Thursday, January 8, 1981, at 7:00 p.m. C D T. If you are interested in continuing your education after you finish high school or if you are a parent who wants to see his child "get ahead" in the world, then this message could be of vital importance to you.

As the cost of education goes up each year, like just about everything else, many parents and potential students are wondering how to pay the bills. The Financial Aid Officers at Lindsey Wilson College and Ruby Roach, counselor at Adair County High School, want you to know that there is a way to get financial assistance. More than $14 billion in federal, state, college, and private financial aid funds will assist more than 3 million students this year.

If your child is a senior, you must take steps right now to apply for assistance from many different sources. Even if your child is not a high school senior, you can plan ahead for college financing.

The workshop will include information on what college really costs, how to apply for aid, and what types of aid are available.

According to Michael Wiggington at Lindsey Wilson College, "Financial Assistance now guarantees that everyone can attend the college of his-her choice regardless of their financial situation. There is no reason for anyone to forfeit a college career due to its costs. With financial aid you can afford to continue your education. All you need is desire."

For more information on the financial aid workshop, contact the Office of Financial Aid at Lindsey Wilson, 384-2126 EXT. 25. +

The 68-student Bonner Scholars Program is the flagship of Lindsey Wilson College's service-learning efforts, which recently earned a national honor from the President's Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll.

LWC Earns National Distinction From President's Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll

Lindsey Wilson College's service-learning efforts have earned national recognition.

LWC has been named to the President's Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll. The award is given by the Corporation for National and Community Service, a federal agency that encourages community service at U.S. colleges and universities.

In the area of general community service, Lindsey Wilson was named to the honor roll with distinction, the only Kentucky college or university to receive that designation. LWC was one of two Kentucky schools to receive a distinction designation in the honor roll's four categories.

Launched in 2006, the President's Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll annually highlights the role colleges and universities play in solving community problems. Institutions are recognized for achievements in general community service, interfaith community service, economic opportunity and education.

LWC was recognized in large part because of the work of its Bonner Scholars Program, which has dozens of service-learning initiatives throughout Southcentral Kentucky. The college's Malvina Farkle Day -- an annual day of college-wide community service by LWC faculty, staff and students -- also earned recognition.

During the 2013-14 school year, LWC students, faculty and staff combined to give more than 32,000 hours of community service, according to LWC Director of Civic Engagement Amy Thompson-Wells.

"We are the first phone call that people make in the community when they want volunteers at their organization," Thompson-Wells said. "Many organizations could not function without the help they receive from Lindsey Wilson students, and we are thankful for the opportunity to help make a difference in our region."

The flagship of LWC's service-learning efforts is the Bonner Scholars Program, a group of 68 students who commit to at least 10 hours of community service a week during the school year. Since its inception on campus in 2005, Thompson-Wells said the Bonner Scholars Program has helped LWC deploy service-learning more strategically.

"We've gone from random acts of kindness to strategic change and social justice," she said. "We're a sustainable partner, and community groups can count on us every year to provide quality volunteers to help with the capacity-building within their organization."

One of those programs is Camp Casey, an after-school program in Adair County public schools and sponsored by the 21st Century Program. The daily two-hour program targets preschool through second-grade students, nearly 70 percent of whom qualify for a free or reduced lunch.

A total of 219 LWC students worked with 438 Adair County students in 2013-14. The LWC volunteers saved Adair County more than $47,000 annually, Thompson-Wells said.

"Not only does this program help the school children increase their reading and math scores, but the mentoring and tutoring they receive from Lindsey Wilson volunteers helps instill confidence and a higher self-esteem in them and helps them believe anything is possible," she said.

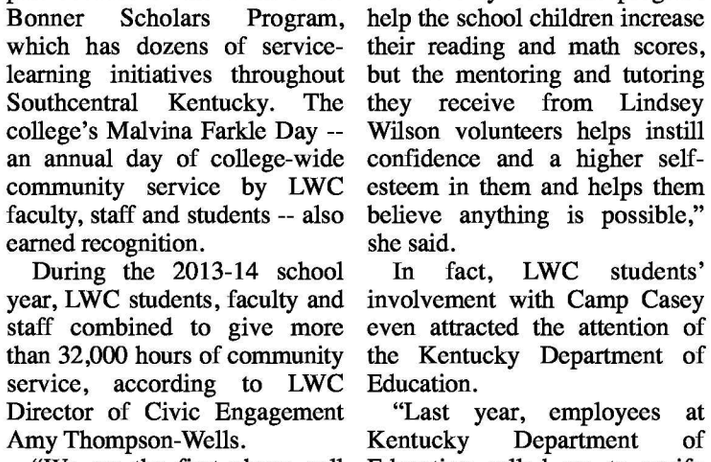

In fact, LWC students' involvement with Camp Casey even attracted the attention of the Kentucky Department of Education.

"Last year, employees at Kentucky Department of Education called me to verify the number of volunteers I had reported because they thought the number was exceptional," Thompson-Wells said.

In addition to changing the region, Thompson-Wells said service-learning also changes LWC students' lives.

"We give students real-world experience by allowing them to serve in the community," she said. "Many of our students come into college thinking they know what they want to do with their lives, but many will wind up changing their major because of the service they provide. It's really life-changing for many students as well."

Farm Bill Meeting

Under the 2014 Farm Bill, farmers will have new options for risk management of grain crops. The 2014 Farm Bill replaces Direct Payments with new programs. Landowners with base acres of grain will be able to choose from Agricultural Risk Coverage (ARC), Price Loss Coverage (PLC), and Individual Agriculture Risk Policy (ARC-I). It is important for farmers to realize that these programs only pay on base acres tied to the land. Regardless of actual acres grown (even if none are grown) only base acres are eligible for enrollment. A tri-County informational meeting on ARC & PLC will be held on Thursday, January 22nd at 9:30 am CT at the Taylor County Cooperative Extension Service. This will be an in-depth meeting that will provide farmers necessary information to make an informed decision when selecting either ARC or PLC for their farm.

Cattlemen's Association Annual Meeting

Monday -- January 26 -- 6:30 pm @ LWC Dining Center

All Adair County Cattlemen's Association members and prospective members are invited to attend. The Adair County Cattlemen's Association is one of the largest organizations representing farmers. The association meets about six times a year, hosts an annual Field Day, and provides scholarship opportunities to Adair County students wishing to attend college. Dues are $30 for single membership, and $45 for couples membership. Becoming a member of the Cattlemen's Association also makes one a member of the Kentucky Cattlemen's Association. Members receive a monthly magazine entitled "Cow Country News" which features hot topics in the industry as well as the most update research for KY cattle producers. For more information about the Adair County Cattlemen's Association, contact the Extension Office at 270-384-2317.

Time To Think About Gardening

Although spring is several weeks away now is the time for us to be planning ahead for 2015.

The Adair County Garden Club will met on January 22, 2015 at 1:00 CST for their annual planning meeting, in the basement of Columbia-Adair County Chamber of Commerce, 201 Burkesville Street, Columbia, KY.

The meeting is important as we discuss our plans for 2015, topics for our classes, places to visit, and where we need to focus our attention in our community for this new year. If you are interested in gardening, getting out in the community, meeting new people, having lots of fun while visiting unique places then come join us.

The Adair County Garden Club meets on the 4th Thursday of each month at 1:00 PM CST. Our meetings are designed to expand your knowledge of gardening, landscape, birds and many other horticulture related topics. A nominal membership fee is required to join. The Adair County Garden Club members take pride in our community so we invite you to expand your horizons in 2015.

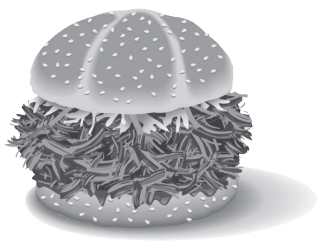

If you have any questions, please contact Donna Jones ACGC president at 270-634-2125.

community's many veterans.

"As far as military services, there's a lot of people 28, 29 years old that have come back from Iraq or Afghanistan and they're different," Roach says. "They have traumatic brain injuries. They might not walk with a limp or have something that you can see, but they have real injuries. I do a lot of that kind of work."

Something else Roach does a lot of is drive. He's still running his office in South Carolina, and has been making the six-hour trip to Columbia on a regular basis, sometimes several times in a single week. Despite the distance, Roach says the only real challenge to running businesses so far apart is that statutes differ from state to state.

"That part is a challenge because Kentucky law and South Carolina law are quite different—you end up having different emphases on things," Roach said. "The good part is that veterans' and social security laws are essentially the same. There haven't really been any other challenges other than the ones you'd expect from opening a new business."

The smooth transition from running a single firm to running two firms several hundred miles apart can be attributed—according to Roach—to two helpful factors: modern technology and local support.

"With emails, faxes, and Skype, it's amazing what you can get done," Roach said. "Also, everyone around here has been very supportive and helpful with anything I've needed."

Roach Law Firm can be reached by calling (270) 380 1792 or by emailing h.roach@halwroach.com.

Tribe Splits Road Trip to Caverna

LADY INDIANS 60 CAVERNA 48

Looking to bounce back from last Thursday's loss to powerhouse E-Town, the Lady Indians made the trek to Caverna for more 5th Region action as part of a girl-boy doubleheader Monday night. The Lady Indians responded impressively, surging past the 9-5 home squad for the 60-48 win.

"This was a great bounce back effort after the E-Town loss," Coach James Turner said of the win. "We played with a lot of energy tonight."

The home team grabbed control early, leading 13-9 after just one quarter, but the Lady Indian offense soon found it's groove, led by junior guard Beth Owens, who dueled with Lady Colonel standout Madison Faulkner as the game's best scorer. Adair battled back to knot the score at 21 at the break and carried their momentum over into the second half.

Adair would push ahead to lead by five points after three quarters before a 22-point fourth quarter showing secured the victory 60-48.

Owens led the Lady Indians on the night, pouring in 20 points, while backcourt mate Alex Keltner notched 12 of her own and orchestrated the efficient Adair offense. Junior center Harlee Smock and sophomore forward Katherine Curry each added 9, Brooklyn Coomer tallied 8, and MaKayla Matthews pitched in 2 points in the win.

The Indians also entered Monday night's doubleheader hoping to rebound from a loss, in their case a heartbreaking one-point defeat at the hands of Allen County-Scottsville. Unfortunately, the Tribe would fall again in this one, as Caverna's Mason Faulkner accounted for 26 of their 54 points in the victory.

Adair County played host to 5th Region favorite and the state's No. 1-ranked team, Elizabethtown, last Thursday night, and were outmatched from the very beginning, falling behind early and eventually losing, 75-30.

Led by one of the nation's top juniors, Erin Boley, and a handful of other Division 1 commitments, E-town jumped out to a quick 16-0 lead in the game's first five minutes and never looked back. Lady Indians' head coach James Turner said he was more disappointed in his team's effort than the outcome.

"Our energy was just not good, and against a team like that, if you don't play hard, you look even worse," Turner

Changes Coming for Little League Baseball

The 2015 Adair Co. Little League season will have a new look this year after the national Little League Congress adjusted the age determination for the baseball divisions. It has been a very confusing several months since the passing of the measure and the local Board of Directors have been mulling decisions for our league to maintain fun, competitive, and safe divisions of play for our young men.

According to the Little League International release: "Using feedback from Little LeagueÆ parents through our District Administrators, the Little League International Board of Directors adjusted the April-approved implementation strategy in order to modify the impact on all of our minor and major division players. The adjustment also allows for an easier transition for players in the early years of Little League participation.

"As a result of this recent adjustment to the implementation strategy, effective immediately, any player born on or after January 1, 2006 will use the new age determination date of December 31 for the reminder of their Little League Baseball career. Players will still be assigned to a division based on local league divisional structure.

"Consequently, players born prior to January 1, 2006 will continue to utilize the current age determination date of April 30 for the remainder of their Little League career."

As a result of these changes passed down from national headquarters, Adair Co. Little League will implement the following age divisions in the 2015 season: Major League (11/12 year olds), Minor League (9/10 year olds), Coach Pitch (6, 7, 8 year olds), and Tee Ball (3,4,5 year olds). Five year old boys will have the option of moving to coach pitch with parent and board

THE BREAKDOWN

Editorial by Blake Spires

I was all set this week to write about how Oregon had become the first college football national champion in my lifetime that no one hated. There had been champs before that were the lesser of two evils, perhaps, like Oklahoma over Florida State in 2001, but never a victor that garnered general approval and support in the way Oregon would have with a win Monday night.

Last month's Heisman trophy ceremony was the prelude, when Ducks QB Marcus Mariota ended the streak of Cam Newton, Johnny Manziel and Jameis Winston as nefarious juggernauts to hoist the hardware. The arrogant-yet-interesting Chip Kelly was fully removed from the program and generic Mark Helfrich had taken the reigns as head coach. The loveable Duck mascot and never ending unique jerseys were on full display. Monday night was to be the coronation of the good guys.

And then Urban Meyer steamrolled America. With a quarterback nicknamed after a shotgun and a running back named after Jules Winnfield's favorite Bible verse in Pulp Fiction, the Buckeyes trounced Oregon Monday night in a game that only truly felt like a contest on the Ducks'opening drive. Mariota finished with an efficient stat line, topped 300 yards passing, and avoided any major mistakes aside from a garbage time interception, but the Ohio State trenches were overwhelming.

Late in the game, Mariota scrambled for his life and threw the ball away. Seconds and steps after the ball left his hand, he was crushed to the ground by an Ohio State defensive end. All contest long, the Buckeye O-line mauled Oregon's defense, opening up running lanes for Ezekiel Elliot larger than the overhead display screens at AT&T Stadium. This size, strength, and downright viciousness was the difference in the 2015 National Title game.

But it wasn't the physicality or nastiness of OSU that caused the rest of the country to be pulling for the Ducks. In fact, it wasn't even the likeableness of Oregon that had the rooting interest leaning in that direction. The barrage of Oregon supporters on Monday night were on that particular bandwagon because the other option was Ohio State and Urban Meyer.

I've written before about Meyer. Before the start of the 2013 season, I used this space to again mock him for his player suspensions, which typically involve strict discipline to guys buried on the depth chart in an effort to send a message, and leniency or outright cover-ups for star players or guys without an elite backup. I wrote about his "retirement to spend time with family" that perfectly coincided with the downturn of his Florida Gators roster, only to have a change of heart when a loaded Buckeyes job was available.

That guy is still the same, and his ability to coach is still unparalleled in the college game. Last night was his third championship, and he was equally as impressive in stops at Bowling Green and Utah. He is a Hall of Fame coach, and his resume at a young age relative to other coaches speaks for itself, both good and bad.

Even without Meyer on the sidelines, America would have been pulling for Oregon, and more notably, against Ohio State. But why? Typically, in these situations, people I know pull for the most local, similar team. Ohio would definitely fit that billing for Kentucky and essentially all but the Pacific Northwest of the country, so another thing that should have gone for OSU went against it.

Much of the phenomenon is explained by underdog theory, of course. Even as the higher seed, a matchup between perennial powers with historical programs like Ohio State and a relative flash in the pan newcomer like Oregon sees America cheer on the perceived little guy. It's similar to the country's celebration when Kentucky or Duke basketball loses, and it's natural to pull for David vs. Goliath.

Even still, in a matchup between two Goliaths, like when the Buckeyes faced LSU or Florida for the crown, it was Ohio State that was viewed as the villain, and one of those came with Urban Meyer on the opposing sideline.

So it isn't location, it isn't tradition, it isn't even Urban Meyer's smug face. It's also unlikely that the entire football fan population has been on the Cumberland Parkway behind a van with Ohio plates driving 55 in the left lane, so that theory is out, and as obnoxious as fans and alumni referring to it as THE Ohio State University may be, that explanation wouldn't explain the overwhelming dislike either.

What is it then? Why did you cheer for Oregon on Monday night? Why do you cheer against Ohio State, who isn't even a primary rival for any of the local teams that many of us cheer for? Or are you one of the few non-Buckeyes that cheered for them in the title game? Write in and tell us, or send me an email at blakespires@adairprogress.com or find us on twitter @AdairProgress and let us know.

Adair Rally Falls Short Against Allen County-Scottsville

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

Indians 55 Allen County-Scottsville 56

The Tribe was at home Saturday night, hosting the 4th Region Patriots of Allen County-Scottsville. After a close contest to start, the Indians fell behind in the second half before a late rally stopped just short of sending the game to overtime as Adair lost 56-55 on a missed free throw with no time remaining.

"We didn't play with a sense of urgency until late in the game, and by that point it was almost too late," Coach Mark Fudge said following the loss. "Allen County-Scottsville has a nice team, but that was a game we could have won."

A brotherly lob from freshman Corey to sophomore Chance Melton opened the action and put the Indians on the board first, but the pace slowed considerably after the highlight to start. Both teams struggled offensively, but Allen County-Scottsville rattled home the first of several threes on the night to break the drought and take a 3-2 lead midway through the first.

From there, Chance Melton blocked a shot on one end before sinking a midrange jumper on the other, then connected on a jump hook to put Adair back on top 6-5. Another ACS triple answered for the Patriots, but a Corey Melton drive and score and then two free throws with time expired in the first quarter left it 10-8 Adair after one and served as a precursor of the game's conclusion.

The back-and-forth battle continued in the second quarter, as ACS scored twice from the post to open the period and take a slim lead. A pair of buckets from Cameron Lasley and Chance Melton put Adair back ahead, but another Patriot three seemed to be the theme of the night. The lead would grow to five, but two more Corey Melton free throws set the halftime score, 19-16, in favor of the visitors.

The Patriots took control in the third quarter. An and-one gave them three points the old fashioned way to begin the frame, but ACS would also connect on four additional three-pointers in the period.

Meanwhile, the Indiansfound better offense as well. Chance Melton scored 8 of his 24 points in the quarter, showcasing a jumper that continues to round into form, while buckets from Lasley, Corey Melton and senior guard Zach Hutchison provided the other half of Adair's scoring in the third. ACS led by as many as many as 11 in the quarter, and after three, held a 40-32 advantage.

Sophomore Chance Melton spun to the rim and scored on this finger roll Saturday night. The Indians forward notched 24 points and 8 rebounds as the Tribe fell 56-55.

Another long two from Chance Melton to start the fourth was answered by two easy buckets from the visitors, and the lead was back to double digits with just 6:43 to play. A strong post score from Lasley, a charging call against the Patriots and a deep Hutchison triple cut the lead to five almost immediately, however, and the two teams traded buckets for the next four minutes.

Zach Hutchison drained a pair of threes in the fourth quarter of Saturday night's comeback bid against Allen County-Scottsville. The senior scored 14 points in the contest, but Adair came up short, 56-55.

The Allen County-Scottsvillelead grew back to eight with 2:39, but a Hutchison and-one, quick two, and then three-pointer narrowed the gap to just four points with 1:40 remaining. The Adair press forced consecutive turnovers, and Chance Melton sank two free throws to make it 53-51 with just over a minute to play as the Patriots milked the clock.

After the visitors made two free throws, an inbounds lob to Melton kept it a one possession game and Adair was forced to foul with 11 seconds remaining, down by two. The Patriots missed the free throws, and Adair gathered the rebound, racing up court where Hutchison's three-point attempt to win was off. The ball careened toward the end line where junior forward Jacob Pooler somehow managed to wrangle it away from an ACS rebounder, put up a shot and draw a foul as the horn sounded.

With zeroes showing on the clock and trailing by two, Pooler stepped to the line and converted the first of the foul shots before the second spiraled its way around the rim before edging out, and the comeback attempt fell just short, 56-55.

"I thought we executed well down the stretch to give ourselves an opportunity to win," Fudge added of the Tribe's performance. "As a team, we shot the ball better, but poor shooting early on put us in a difficult situation."

Chance Melton led the Indians on the night with 24 points and 8 rebounds. Hutchison's strong second half gave him 14 points on the night, while Corey Melton's productive first half left the freshman with 10 points in the game. Sophomore Cameron Lasley chipped in 6 points and 4 rebounds, and Jacob Pooler tallied 1 point in the 55-point effort from the Tribe.

"You have to give Mason Faulkner a lot of credit, he simply took the game over," Coach Mark Fudge said of the rival performance. "We had too many missed opportunities on the offensive end and allowed too many second change points on the other end—we have to do a better job of finishing games off down the stretch."

Caverna took a 13-11 lead after one quarter, before Adair captured the 26-25 advantage at the half. The low-scoring pace suited Adair's preferred tempo in the contest, but after a 38-36 lead at the end of the third quarter, the Indian offense sputtered in the fourth.

Adair managed just seven points in the final frame, and with no answer for Faulkner on the defensive end, the Colonels escaped with the home victory, 54-45, to move to 11-4 on the season.

Chance Melton led the Indians with 16 points in the contest, while senior guard Zach Hutchison joined him in double figures with 15.

said. You have to credit E-town though, because they caused us to look bad. They caused a lot of problems for us."

Despite the disastrous start, Adair managed to hold the Lady Panthers scoreless for the final three minutes of the first frame and mount a 6-0 mini-run behind an and-1 from Harlee Smock and a long-range bomb from Alex Keltner to end the first quarter within striking distance, down 16-6.

Turnovers and poor rebounding were the Tribe's main problems all night, and that theme continued in the second quarter, as Etown scored the period's first 10 points to essentially put the game away in the first half.

Beth Owens hit a pair of free throws to stop the bleeding momentarily, but E-town answered with two quick buckets to open the margin to 31-8 with four minutes left in the half. Junior reserve MaKayla Matthews found the scoreboard off a nice dish inside from Keltner, but two points apiece from Owens and Smock were all the offense Adair could muster for the next three-and-a-half minutes, and the Lady Indians trailed 43-14 at intermission.

With the second half a mere formality, both teams lengthened their rotations to give some reserves more playing time, but the beating continued in much the same fashion, with E-town's suffocating defense and superior size on the glass taking away any chance for an Adair comeback.

Smock sank a mid-range jumper, Owens hit a free throw, and Keltner converted a pair of 10-footers, but the deficit continued to grow, as Adair had no answer for E-town's refined offense. The Tribe's final basket of the third quarter came with just less than two minutes remaining, when sophomore Katherine Curry hit smock underneath for a layup, but Adair trailed 53-23 heading into the final frame.

The home team went scoreless for the first two minutes of the fourth before Hannah Absher drained a three to make the count 58-26. Four points from Brooklyn Coomer was all the offense Adair had left, and the Tribe walked away from this one with a 35-point loss to one of the best girls' teams in the country.

"We just tried to focus on us, how we played," Turner said. "I told them it's just one game. I think we handled it really well because our spirits stayed up and we bounced back with a good practice the next day, then played well Monday to get the win [against Caverna]."

Smock led the Tribe with 9 points in the loss, Keltner had 7, and Owens added 5. Coomer, Absher, and Matthews rounded out Adair's scoring with 4, 3, and 2 points, respectively. Absher came off the bench to lead the team in rebounds with 6, and Owens and Keltner each added two assists.

According to ACLL President Scott Bennett the local league will see the biggest change in the minor league division. "Our major issue will be the large number of nine year olds (birth dates from May 2005-December 2006) resulting from the rule change. This age division normally has four teams, but if our numbers line up from previous years we will have anywhere from 6-8 teams this year."

"The board has been working on ways to utilize our fields most effectively and have the least impact overall on the entire league, I feel that our plan is sound, but ask our parents, coaches, and players to be patient as this is implemented."

The age change rule is in effect for the baseball divisions only, the softball divisions age determination will remain the same as previous seasons.

Parents with questions are encouraged to contact Scott Bennett, ACLL President (270) 250-4112 or any board member.

Michelle Montgomery finished with 18 points in the victory

Montgomery Posts Career-High 18 Points As LWC Women's Basketball Defeats Berea 81-64

The 22nd-ranked Lindsey Wilson women's basketball team defeated Berea (Ky.) 81-64 Monday night at Biggers Sports Center behind a suffocating defense that forced 23 Mountaineer turnovers.

In the first half, both teams traded baskets early. Michelle Montgomery scored the first four points of the game for the Blue Raiders, but Berea took a 10-6 lead with 14:53 left in the first half.

Lindsey Wilson (14-4) then found a rhythm going on a 23-4 run in a span of six and a half minutes ignited by Chanel Roberts who scored a basket, followed by a three-pointer.

With 8:20 left in the first half, Ashley Johnson made a three-point basket, which forced a Berea timeout. The Blue Raiders led 29-14.

With 2:53 remaining in the first half, Montgomery made two-straight baskets followed by a three-point basket by Cassidy Martin. Lindsey Wilson led 41-24 with 1:50 left in the first half. Berea (7-6) then scored seven-straight points to close out the half. The Blue Raiders led 41-31 at the break.

Lindsey Wilson shot 41.0 percent in the first half, while Berea posted a 60.9 percentage from the floor. The Blue Raiders scored 19 points off 18 Mountaineer turnovers in the first half, and tallied 14 steals.

In the second half, the Blue Raiders stayed aggressive sprinting out to a 9-2 run ignited by two three-point baskets by Martin. Lindsey Wilson led 50-33 with 14:57 remaining in the game.

With 12:29 left in the game, Berea went on a 14-6 run to cut the deficit to 13 at 63-50. Martin then hit a three-pointer, followed by six-straight points by the Mountaineers. Berea then made a three-point basket as the Blue Raiders led 72-59 with 3:35 left in the game.

Berea was unable to make a comeback as the Blue Raiders scored eight of the game's final 12 points.

Roberts scored 21 points to lead the team, while Montgomery scored a career-high 18 points and tallied six rebounds. Martin also posted double-figures with 15 points including 5-of-9 from beyond the arc.

Jamie Roberts led the Mountaineers with 17 points and Johnesha Warren added 16 points.

Lindsey Wilson shot 43.7 percent from the floor, while Berea recorded a 47.3 percentage from the field.

The Blue Raiders forced 23 turnovers and tallied 18 steals on the night.

Lindsey Wilson's next game is Thursday, Jan. 15 at Pikeville (Ky.) at 5 p.m. CT.

LWC Men's Basketball rolls past Fisk, 85-63

Blue Raiders bolt out to a 26-point halftime lead en route to the victory

The Lindsey Wilson men's basketball team had five players score in double figures in an 85-63 win against Fisk (Tenn.) on Saturday night at Biggers Sports Center.

The Blue Raiders (10-8) shot 51.6 percent from the field (33-of-64), while the visiting Bulldogs (0-15) hit 18-of-61 field-goal attempts (.295) in a losing effort. Additionally, Lindsey Wilson finished with a 46-to-39 rebounding advantage over Fisk.

To open the night, the Blue Raiders sprinted out to a double-digit lead at 12-2 as early as near the 15:45 mark of the first half.

Tony Horne accounted for eight of the team's first 12 points in that stretch, and D'on Hall and Bryan Wallace each contributed a pair of points during that four-plus-minute spurt.

In the subsequent span of over five minutes, Lindsey Wilson went on an 11-1 run to assume a 23-3 edge.

With the shot clock winding down to less than five seconds, Hannes Erhardt gathered in a pass near the low post, and successfully banked in a two-point basket to seal the Blue Raiders' run with roughly 10:30 to go in the opening half.

Further on down the line, Lindsey Wilson scored nine unanswered points to hold a 35-10 advantage with the clock near the 4:30 mark before halftime. In this stretch, Hall had five points, and Tony Menton and Keshaun Mayfield added two points each.

Hall accounted for the final basket of the first half with 10 seconds remaining to put the Blue Raiders up by a 42-16 margin as both teams headed to their respective locker rooms at the break.

During the first half, Lindsey Wilson shot 17-of-33 from the field (.515), and outrebounded Fisk by a 25-to-15 margin. By comparison, the Bulldogs hit 25.0 percent of their field-goal attempts (5-of-25) and turned the ball over a dozen times.

In the opening half alone, the Blue Raiders had three players each score at least eight points. Hall had 11 points, Menton added nine points and Horne contributed eight points.

During the second half of play, the Bulldogs improved their field-goal percentage to 36.1 percent (13-of-36) and also hit 17-of-20 free-throw attempts (.850) to outscore the Blue Raiders by a 47-to-43 margin. Lindsey Wilson, however, continued to shoot well from the floor as it converted 51.6 percent of its second-half field goals (16-of-31) to secure the victory.

Hall ended the night with 13 points and six rebounds for the Blue Raiders. Menton had season highs with 13 points and five rebounds.

Mayfield scored 11 points, and led all players with five assists and four steals. Also finishing in double figures was Wallace, who contributed an even 10 points.

Richmond Jackson ended with game bests of 22 points and 10 rebounds for Fisk. He hit 9-of-10 free-throw shots and also had three steals.

Up next for Lindsey Wilson is a road game against No. 4-ranked Pikeville (Ky.) with the opening jump scheduled for 7 p.m. CT on Thursday.

Michael Pixley named Mid-South Conference Wrestler of the Week

Freshman Michael Pixley is the Mid-South Conference Wrestler of the Week presented by Roeding Insurance, the conference office announced on Tuesday.

Pixley captures his first weekly honor of the season. He becomes the third different Blue Raider to earn the honor this year, joining fellow grapplers James Flint and Joe Cozart.

The Blue Springs, Missouri, native won all five of his matches -- including a pair over nationally ranked foes -- during the National Wrestling Coaches Association (NWCA) NAIA National Duals last week while helping the Blue Raiders to a fifth-place finish in the 16-team event.

Pixley -- who is wrestling for the first time this season in a Lindsey Wilson singlet -- helped the No. 12-ranked Blue Raiders upset No. 10-ranked Missouri Valley in the National Duals' opener by pinning James Smith. The six points helped Lindsey Wilson post a 27-18 win.

In Lindsey Wilson's lone loss of the tournament, Pixley -- who is unranked at 184 pounds -- knocked off Grand View's top-ranked Christian Mays with a 3-2 decision. Pixley was one of two Blue Raiders to score against the No. 1-ranked Vikings in a 31-6 setback.

Pixley cruised to a 16-6 major decision over Baker's (Kan.) Bryan Gullien in a 23-15 win over the No. 15-ranked Wildcats. He followed with a 3-2 decision over sixth-ranked L.J. Grayson in the Blue Raiders' 24-19 win over No. 6-ranked Indiana Tech.

Finally in the fifth-place match, Pixley scored a technical fall with a 21-6 win over Cumberlands' (Ky.) Brocky Leidecker. Lindsey Wilson defeated the Patriots 32-9.

Pixley's sweep pushes his season record to 5-0.

The Blue Raiders return to the mat on Friday, Jan. 16 when they take on Cumberland (Tenn.) in the first MSC dual meet of the season.

Together We Can Do Anything! A Year In Review...

BY SHAMARIE CLAIBORNE

It is not often that a person, place, or community can look back over its shoulder and see positive change has not only occurred but been the dominating theme of its recent past. Yet, for the first time in years, the Adair County Schools can say without question positive change is what has defined us over the past year or so.

I think Steven Covey, the creator of "Leader in Me", stated it best: "The bottom line is, when people are crystal clear about the most important priorities of the organization and team they work with and prioritize their work around those top priorities, not only are they more productive, they discover they have the time they need to have a whole life."

The following list shows just what can be accomplished when a Superintendent, Board of Education, administrators, teachers, and staff have a shared agenda that is not only transparent but crystal clear.

IMPLEMENT RACE TO THE TOP:

$2.4 million dollars (one of only 22 districts in Kentucky)

Early Release Fridays -- Teachers participate in ongoing professional development, instructional planning, and progress monitoring to enhance student learning.

Students are provided with remedial, enrichment and personal growth activities.

Data Teams analyze data from assessments like MAP, KPREP, CIITS, etc.

Personalized Learning Teams -- to meet college and career awareness, PL Teams will develop a plan to address students' diverse needs through a customized, personalized learning environment.

Standards Based Grading -- focus will be on course completion to master standards. Students will move smoothly from standard to standard rather than grade to grade. ERFs will be used to work in data teams or other teacher groups to analyze data so they can adjust/plan strategies where kids will be successful.

Leader in Me -- anchored in strategies from Stephen Covey's work Leader in Me and 7 Habits of Highly Effective People -- main focus is to teach students good leadership skills like building daily habits of goal-setting, teamwork, critical thinking, communication, creativity and problem solving so students can see relevance of what they are doing so they will build career skills to be college and career ready.

Project staff from GREEC have provided services/ support for our district on all RTT initiatives. For example, CCR Counselor, Cognitive Coaches, Preschool Pals, Leader Mentors, materials like technology, preschool curricula, etc.*

OTHER

1. To enter the contest, contestants must use either this page or an identical contest page obtained at no charge at the Adair Progress office, located at 98 Grant Lane, Columbia. You do not have to purchase a paper or anything else to be eligible to win.
2. Contestants must circle the winners on this page (no copies, or reproductions) in INK! Entries circled in pencil will automatically be disqualified.
3. Winner will be the person who correctly picks the winners of the most games. If more than one person picks the same number of winners, the tie-breaker game will be used to determine the winner.
4. All entries must be MAILED to: The Adair Progress Basketball Contest, P.O. Box 595, Columbia, KY 42728. All entries must be postmarked by FRIDAY of this week. ENTRIES WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED AT THE NEWS OFFICE, THEY MUST BE MAILED.
5. Decisions of the judges are final.
6. Employees of the Adair Progress, Inc. and their immediate families are not eligible for this contest.
7. In the event a game listed in the contest is not played or is incorrectly listed, that game will be thrown out and not counted.
8. Only one entry per person. Individuals who fill out multiple entries will have all entries thrown out.
